Sonia Satra, Producer, Nite Owl Productions, Inc., has ten years of experience in the entertainment industry. She has successfully worked as an actress and producer in both television and film. Sonia has starred in contract roles on the critically acclaimed CBS Daytime Drama 'Guiding Light' as well as the ABC Daytime Drama, 'One Life To Live'. She recently served as executive producer, securing all of the name talent, on the film, 'Pride and Loyalty', filmed on location throughout New York City. Sonia also starred opposite Oscar winning actor James Coburn in the feature film, 'Intrepid' and played the lead role of British bad girl Fiona in the Indie film 'Hyacinth'. In addition to these are the releases of 'Strike Zone' and 'My Friend's Love Affair'. Her television credits also include numerous guest appearances on shows such as 'Soldier of Fortune' and 'Baywatch' and she has just completed the pilot presentation, 'Beef and Boards' at the HBO/Warner Brothers Workspace. Some of Sonia's other notable credits include pilot 'Bonanza, Legends of the Ponderosa' and NBC Movie of the Week, 'Bonanza Under Attack' starring opposite Richard Roundtree, Dennis Farina, Leonard Nimoy and Ben Johnson (also an Oscar nominee). In addition to this Sonia has produced two plays in Los Angeles—'New York Minute' and 'Labor Pains' and an indie film, 'Pride and Loyalty' in New York. She is currently producing another film called 'Revelations in the Wilderness', (in the development stages) based on the published novel of the same name— as well as producing and hosting an exciting new cable television show, 'Celebrity Outdoor Adventure'. When Sonia Satra isn't working as an actress or a producer, she enjoys skydiving, yoga, horseback riding, painting, listening to cool blues guitarists, and of course, mountain climbing. She's actually climbed the two highest mountains in Norway, and Mount Whitney, the highest mountain in the continental United States. Sonia is also an ardent boxing enthusiast. When in New York, she's an avid boxing regular at Gleason's World Famous Boxing Gym in Brooklyn, New York. Sonia's enthusiasm for living life to the absolute edge is contagious. She is rather modest when talking about her accomplishments. The fervently energetic actress prefers to talk more about what she has yet to accomplish. "Life is a series of realizations and endless possibilities, I want to reach a level in which I'm no longer anticipating the arrival of the next colossal wave, I'm just cleverly riding it in." —Sonia Satra on Life Surfing
